DIVISION 5 – HEIRLOOMS

Definition: An heirloom is a variety that is at least 50 years old and is open-pollinated (can reproduce true from seed).

Past generations had a diverse array of vegetable, fruit, flower and herb varieties. These varieties were adapted to the climate, soil conditions, diseases and insects of their growing regions. Remembering the potato famine in Ireland and considering the genetic engineering being done with our food crops, it is vital that we keep the diverse gene pool of past varieties alive. Thanks to concerned gardeners and seed saving organizations, many old varieties are available to us again. Pay homage to our grandparents and history – try an heirloom this year.

Premiums: 1st - $6.00 2nd - $5.00 3rd - $4.00 4th - $3.00
